

Numbered Series of Archive Boxes containing David Irving's Research papers, Manuscripts, Correspondence, Articles, as listed at No. 81 Duke Street in 1998-1999.

EXPLANATION. Most of these new white Viking-brand archive boxes (1, 2, 3, etc) contained three Viking archive sub-boxes (a), (b), (c). The labels pasted on the outside of each box repeated the information provided below. The boxes were created during the two-year process of Discovery for the Lipstadt Trial beginning in January 2000. Those boxes not in use inside the study were stacked three-deep along the corridor at the Duke Street apartment, or stacked around the other rooms, e.g. packed into the upper and lower cupboards behind the kitchen door. Further unnumbered individual sub-boxes (primarily holding duplicate copies of correspondence, chronologically arranged as the "Day Book") were located on shelves and cupboards in the cupboards in the former butler's pantry. Ryman-brand "transfer-cases" (brown paper tied with string) were also stacked on the shelves next to the servant's WC. They are not listed here. To relieve pressure on space, a number of archive boxes, listed below, were shipped after the Lipstadt Trial to a warehouse in Illinois. Those left on the Duke Street premises were largely lost either after they were seized by Baker Tilly or after the premises' seizure on May 23, 2002.
